

For Immediate Release

Contact:

Jeanne Muzio, Senior Vice President

Alerion, Inc.

978.546.7900

jmuzio@flyalerion.com

Alerion Leads Industry With Unique Security Program

Teaming with security provider AFSG, Alerion announces program to bring the highest level of security available in private aviation to its customers.

White Plains, NY – February 5, 2008 - Alerion, Inc., the Family Office of Flight, announced today that it is partnering with Aviation Facilities Security Group (AFSG), a provider of select security services, to bring the highest level of personally tailored security to all Alerion customers. Alerion specializes in understanding the intricacies of each client's particular travel needs. In today's climate of international travel and attention to heightened security, Alerion can now provide its customers an added level of comfort and safety with a cutting edge security program, partnering with the most experienced group in the industry that specializes in protecting private aviation travelers.

Whether it's for the high-profile individual with personal security concerns, highly recognizable personalities who need extra assistance with security while traveling, or detailed information and security preparation for travel in high-risk areas, through their partnership with AFSG Alerion will be able to offer clients custom tailored security services to ensure their safety and trust.

AFSG provides corporate general aviation and fixed based operators with the proper tools, products and resources to maintain a viable and proactive security program capable of meeting and exceeding TSA standards, providing a safe and secure environment for aircraft, passengers and employees. Among its services are physical security surveys, security program development, flight crew training, program training and aviation safety materials. AFSG assists with pre-flight analysis and security preparation, advance teams and additional security personnel as needed, and any other security information or service that may be required for any given trip.

"We chose to work with AFSG because we felt that they provide the level of quality, trustworthiness and reliability that our customers have come to expect from Alerion," said Mark Reichin, Alerion's CEO and founder. "AFSG is the best security provider in the business, with real-world experience, and we wanted to make that expertise available to our clients who have particular concerns about security wherever their travel takes them."

AFSG's executive staff are former federal agents with over 40 years of law enforcement and real-world security experience, providing executive protection to Heads of State, royal families and former US Presidents. Members of AFSG formulated and implemented the first Standard Security Program under the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) 12-5 security program. They also formulated one of the first sanctioned security programs allowing corporate and charter air carriers to fly into the Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport, under the enhanced security procedures of the TSA. AFSG has been instrumental in developing security programs tailored to the unique demands of charter and corporate aviation.

An increased demand for international travel means more charter trips are being taken to areas of the world where airport safety is questionable. In addition, offering private jet travelers the ultimate in security services follows the trend of heightened security procedures put in place by the TSA. Raising the bar for service in an industry that has grown increasingly institutionalized, Alerion brings the personal attention, trusted advice and management expertise of the private family office to business and personal flight. Providing this personalized, concierge-level approach to security is in keeping Alerion's promise to deliver a point-to-point travel solution and provide an uncompromised level of service to every client on every trip.

About Alerion:

Representing a unique new presence in the private charter sector of the aviation industry, Alerion arranges complete corporate, family and individual travel, as well as providing strategic flight asset management and family office advisory services. Alerion has offices and operations in Fairfield, Connecticut, White Plains, New York, San Francisco, California, and West Palm Beach, Florida. The Alerion team of professionals average 20 years in the business of high performance, private jet aviation services. For more information about Alerion and the Family Office of Flight, visit www.flyalerion.com or call 888.235.8015.

Alerion arranges flights that are operated exclusively by Part 121 or Part 135 direct air carriers. These air carriers must at all times comply with the Federal Aviation Regulations, and hold proper economic authority from the Department of Transportation. Alerion does not own, operate, or manage any aircraft on its own. Alerion is an air charter broker acting as an agent for its clients seeking charter air transportation.

* * *